

1. User scrolls through feed, looks for people posting about parties, then DMs one asking when the next party is. While viewing 24 stories, friend replies with an event for this friday.
2. User looks up “volunteering san diego” and found an account dedicated to advertising community service opportunities.
3. User tapped through stories, saw an invitation for a GoGreenish garden build and the link to attend.
4. User looked at CCA ASB and found the linked school account for class of 2025, showed me information about the senior bonfire on saturday.
1. User uses the search bar to search “events in san diego march.” User scrolls and finds some posts about related events.
2. User clicks on an account that is dedicated to events. User looks at some posts from this account. User scrolls until they find one that looks interesting.
3. User looks at the stories of friends. User clicks on various stories until they find an event-related one. User opens the post.
4. User goes to home page. User scrolls until they find a repost about an event. User clicks on the post and asks the person who posted it about related events. User gathers information about upcoming related events.